COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The classroom component for the spring semester of this course covers an analysis of the methods of selecting judges, speech and money-raising aspects of judicial campaigns, the federal confirmation process, and issues of judicial bias and recusal and behavior on and off the bench.

The work performed in the judicial extern field placement is essentially the same as that performed by a law clerk to a judge. It usually involves preparing memoranda on cases, reviewing case files, drafting opinions and orders, and attending court and conferences. The precise tasks performed, however, depend upon the type of court and the style of the judge.

SPECIAL NOTES:

Concurrent enrollment in Judicial Extern Class and Field Placement required.

See special memo regarding Judicial Extern Program on website.

Complete separate Judicial Extern Preference Form and include transcript and resume.

Materials must be submitted to the Registrar by the end of classes.

Students may not enroll concurrently in Extern programs. May only take Judicial Externship once. Usually offered every semester.
