

I have been told by the publishers that the 9th edition of the casebook should be available this week. They have also assured me that they are coordinating with the bookstore to ensure that it is available for you as soon as possible. Just in case, I have also asked Lori Strait to follow up on this.

However, because of the number of emails I have received, I am posting the first reading on TWEN under course materials "Introduction." I will continue to post the readings until the casebook is available.

Because of changes in the law (some of which simplified the law!), it is best to wait to purchase the casebook until the 9th edition is available.
