

College of Law Official Communications via E-mail

The University issues a University e-mail account to each law student. The University and the College of Law will use electronic mail to communicate official information to the student's University e-mail account.

Examples of such communication include announcements and notices concerning registration, course schedules and cancellations, financial aid, and other official business.

While a student may elect to forward e-mail from the University e-mail account to a different e-mail account, the student does so at his or her own risk. The University has no control over the delivery of e-mail that has been forwarded outside of its domain to external providers. Sending communications to the student's University e-mail account shall act as giving official notice of the communications to the student.
